

The new piece in development from Flying Eye

Wind of Lights

*I stand under the starry sky
and feel the world thrill through me,
like the pulse of ants in an anthill.*

Brighton based theatre company Flying Eye would like to invite your child and you to a free and open sharing of their latest work for babes in arms and carers – Wind of Lights.

Wind of Lights will be about unwordable feelings and their impact on us. Through the use of lighting, music, objects and interaction with performers, we aim to create a playful and sensitive yet dynamic sensory experience for babies, toddlers and their parents.

We are supported by Arts Council England, The Nightingale Theatre and Brighton Dome for this period of Research and Development, as this is the first time we have created a piece of work directly for babies.

And this is why we need you! We need to gather as much feedback from babies and yourselves in order to learn what is the right path for this show – how best to connect with little minds and what will be of most interest to them. Which is why each session will be followed by an informal feedback chat.

The work is aimed at children aged 3 months to 2 years. The 6 free sessions, all of which will last no longer than 15 minutes, are as follows:

Thursday 19th June

11am at The Spire, Eastern Road, Brighton, BN5 5JJ
